REV. W. BISHOP JOHNSON'S GREAT MOVE.

Rev. W. Bishop Johnson, D. D., is one of the youngest and most progressive Baptist ministers in this country. He is the Editor of the National Baptist Magazine and pastor of one of the most handsome granite, stone-front churches in the city.

Dr. Johnson is a young man. He is an up-to-date pastor in every thing that is for the advancement and welfare of his people.

"In the January issue 1896 of his Magazine he published the correspondence that occurred between himself and General Secretary of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, a communication asking for the status of representation of local unions connected with the Colored churches throughout the country, expressing their intentions of being present at Toronto with the representatives of the denomination."

The Colored Baptist did not know how they stood with their white brethren and sisters until Dr. Johnson ascertained.
